A Professional Services Company Committed to Excellence

Lani Hay is founder, President, and CEO of Lanmark Technology (LMT), Inc. LMT is an SBA 8(a) Certified, Woman-owned, Service Disabled Veteran-owned Small Business providing highly specialized and technical professional services strengthening the federal government. In less than a decade, Lani has grown LMT from a one-woman consulting firm to a multi-million dollar enterprise that was recently awarded a half billion dollar contract with the Department of Defense. Lani is the recipient of several awards including, the Small Business Administration's National Minority Small Business Person of the Year, and Office Depot's Businesswoman of the Year. Additionally, the Department of Defense recognized LMT with its Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned Small Business Achievement Award, and Entrepreneur Magazine ranked LMT 7th on its Fastest Growing Women-owned Firms list. In 2009, Fortune named Lani Hay a Most Powerful Woman Entrepreneur. She has participated in a series of White House, Small Business Administration, and Treasury Department meetings and panel discussions with senior administration officials, Vice President Joe Biden, and President Barack Obama to discuss the effects on small business of issues such as healthcare reform, the economy, jobs, access to capital and stimulus funds. Prior to forming LMT, Lani honorably served in the United States Navy as an Intelligence Officer and a Naval Aviation Observer. Lani holds a BS in Mathematics degree from the United States Naval Academy, an MBA from the College of William and Mary's Mason School of Business, and a Master's Certificate in Government Contracting from the George Washington University.
