Executive Office Suites

Executive office suite space can offer businesses—particularly small and/or internationally based firms—an excellent way to enter a market with less of a financial and time commitment than required by leasing conventional office space. This space provides tenants with an attractive, professional workplace at a desirable business address that helps promote a polished business image to clients. Monthly lease rates generally include office furniture, computers, telecommunications, meeting space and administrative support services, which lend predictability to the cost of doing business. Additionally, executive office space business centers take care of building and office cleaning and maintenance, and information technology trouble-shooting.

Because executive office space lease agreements typically last one to 12 months, a business can upsize or downscale its space requirements during the course of its lease based on changing needs. Since there often are many different businesses within an executive office suites business center, tenants have ample opportunities for networking and information-sharing.
